Xernona Clayton's office suite is packed from floor to ceiling with colorful artwork, and her conference room offers a stellar view of the Atlanta skyline. But we weren't there to see the sights. We were there to learn. The Newman Center's spring break pilgrimage was a series of learning experiences as we drove throughout the South visiting important sites from the Civil Rights Movement.

Mrs. Clayton's name isn't one I ever read in a history textbook, but it should have been. She was the mind behind the International Civil Rights Walk of Fame. She was active in the movement and knew Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. before he became a national icon. She once had dinner with a grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan and convinced him to change his views and denounce white nationalism. She is 88 years old and still a social justice advocate. A role model, and also a distant relative of our own Yvonne Chamberlain.

Like Mrs. Clayton, there are tons of participants in the Civil Rights Movement who aren't household names. But their names and actions are preserved and commemorated at the National Civil Rights Museum in Memphis, built into the Lorraine Motel, the exact place where King was shot and killed. The museum goes into great detail about the myriad efforts, milestones, and baby steps on the long road to desegregation. It also lays out the long and ugly history of slavery that laid the foundation for segregation and the continued injustices African Americans face today.

Another thing I think most Americans don't realize is that the Civil Rights Movement wasn't confined to the South because neither is institutionalized racism. There's a wall-sized touch screen in the museum with a map of events that mattered to the movement, and the North wasn't immune: California, Chicago, New England, and even Wyoming saw discrimination and the response of protest.

The Legacy Museum in Montgomery, Alabama, part of the Equal Justice Initiative, further illustrated how deeply ingrained racism is in this country. The museum's theme, "From Enslavement to Mass Incarceration," includes newspaper ads of slaves for sale and the exact texts of segregationist laws. Montgomery was basically the capital of the slave trade, and the museum building was once a warehouse where slaves were kept. The other part of EJI is the National Memorial for Peace and Justice, a moving tribute to victims of slavery, lynchings, segregation, Jim Crow laws, and police violence. The outdoor exhibit is a mass of hanging pillars with lists of names and dates from each county and state where black Americans were lynched. The indoor exhibit includes jars of soil from each lynching location in Alabama alone — and there was a lot of soil.

Our trip was under the patronage of Father Augustus Tolton, the first known African American priest and the namesake of our local Catholic high school. Before we drove south, we visited St. Peter's Brush Creek Catholic Church, where Tolton was born into slavery and baptized, northeast of Columbia and not far from Hannibal. Tolton's family escaped slavery, and he grew up in Quincy, Illinois, where we visited his grave.

We were reminded of our nation's brutal history everywhere we went, including Selma, Alabama, where we walked across the Edmund

Pettus Bridge, the site of the Bloody Sunday attack on civil rights advocates as they marched to Montgomery in 1965. But we were also reminded of the undying perseverance and faith of those who fought for justice and refused to bow to resistance and mistreatment.

Outside the 16th Street Baptist Church in Birmingham, the church where four black girls were killed in a racist bombing in 1963, a homeless African-American man taught us and other visitors the church's history before and after the bombing. He said he lives on cash donations from those who listen to him. People of color are still economically disadvantaged in this country, and wisdom doesn't pay the bills. There is still so much to be done to ensure that all Americans, all human beings, are treated according to the dignity God gave them.

I signed up for the trip partly because I wanted what we set out to learn about social justice to inform my reporting. As a journalist, it's crucial for me to avoid expressing political views on social media, or even in face-to-face interactions, lest I be seen as biased. I've often felt stuck in how I'm supposed to present myself because staying silent about social justice issues perpetuates them, but speaking out about those issues tends to be perceived as politically liberal. On the other hand, Christianity usually falls on the conservative side of the spectrum, so I'm sure most of my Twitter followers don't even know I'm Catholic. At the end of the trip, I decided I need to find the language to be open about my faith and about social justice without risking my credibility. This is something I pray about regularly now.

I initially felt a little out of place on the trip because almost everyone else is more involved at Newman than I've been for the past couple years. But through group prayer and reflection, as well as just having fun, I soon felt at home. We celebrated Mass every day, and each time I remembered what we were supposed to be learning on the trip in the first place: we are all created with equal dignity in God's image. I'm grateful that God called me to participate in Newman's spring break pilgrimage, and I encourage my fellow Newman students to look into their hearts and listen to how God might be calling them closer to Him and others.

YOU'RE INVITED — PARISH TOWN HALLS

Starting with the Parish Survey this past December, we have been working on a strategic plan for the parish for the next 3-5 years. We are now at the point where we would like to share the progress and gather input from all parishioners — both students and residents — on the goals we have for the next year. We will have three Town Hall sessions, to be held in the MPR (second floor by the elevator). Please consider attending one of the following dates:

- Wednesday, May 8 from 6:15-7:30 p.m.
- Thursday, May 9 from 10-11:30 a.m.
- Sunday, May 12 from 1-2:30 p.m.

CONFIRMATION MASS

Please be aware that the Confirmation Mass will be on Saturday, May 11 at the 5 p.m. vigil Mass. There might not be as much seating as there usually is, and Mass may go a bit longer, but anyone is welcome to attend!

FACULTY & STAFF WINE AND CHEESE OPEN HOUSE

All current or retired faculty from any campus: you're invited to a Wine and Cheese Reception! Join us in the MultiPurpose Room on Wednesday, May 15 from 5-7 p.m. Email Angelle Hall (angelle@comonewman.org) to RSVP. We hope to see you there!

VOLUNTEER APPRECIATION DINNER

Thank you to all the wonderful volunteers that support Newman! We'd like to appreciate you at a Volunteer Appreciation Dinner on Tuesday, May 21 from 5-7 p.m. in the MPR. If you have not yet RSVP'd, please do so on the Parish Sign Ups page or contact Theresa at theresa@comonewman.org.

NEWMAN VOLUNTEER CORPS

APRIL PERSONAL ITEMS COLLECTION

This month, Newman Volunteer Corps is collecting diapers (all sizes) and baby wipes as part of the ForColumbia city-wide day of service. Donations may be placed in the large silver bin in the Turner Street entrance. Thank you for the generous response to the collection for Tiger Pantry in March!

NEWMAN NIGHT AT LOAVES AND FISHES

Every second Wednesday of the month, Newman cooks and serves dinner at Loaves and Fishes Soup Kitchen in Columbia. The next Newman Night at Loaves and Fishes is May 8. Volunteers are needed to cook, serve dinner, or bake desserts. Please RSVP on the sign ups page on our website. Loaves and Fishes is located at 702 Wilkes Blvd. (at the Wilkes Blvd. United Methodist Church).

VOLUNTEER FOR THE INTERFAITH GARDEN

For the past 10 years, Newman has joined efforts with Congregation Beth Shalom in their garden plot to grow fruit and vegetables for the needy in Columbia. By practicing organic gardening, we are taking part in the conservation of our land and water and the protection of all forms of life from exposure to chemicals used in conventional farming. We invite people of all faiths who enjoy gardening and feeding the poor to help us in this endeavor. We have two workdays: Sunday and Wednesday mornings. We have an urgent need of volunteers on Wednesday mornings. Children, under the supervision of their parents, are welcome, too. No gardening experience necessary. Please call Lily Chan at 573-289-3792 or lilyhchan@gmail.com if you are interested.

KIDS' CORNER

For Kids: It took time for the apostles to understand that Jesus rose from the dead! How can you keep celebrating Easter this week?

For Parents: Jesus has given us hope and freedom, but fear is natural when we don't understand. The apostles didn't know what the resurrection really meant for them; they needed Jesus to tell them the way he always had before. This week, spend time thinking about "doubting Thomas" and the way he changed after he spoke with Jesus. How is Christ calling us to see with new eyes in the Easter season?
